Kentucky Is the Best Home.

To the Big Sandy News:—

Having been a regular reader of your weekly issue since coming to St. Leavenworth, Kansas, I anxiously look for its arrival. Upon reading it I pass it on to others of the comrades who are anxious to devour the contents, especially that portion containing the general news of Kentucky. Not to occupy too much space in your columns I will now voice off by endeavoring to say something about my present home and surroundings. This place is beautiful in the extreme, (but not so beautiful as my old Kentucky home), being situated about two miles north of the city of Leavenworth on the Missouri river. The Fort itself is quite a large town. I will mention the living conditions of my present home, which I am sorry to say is not like life in the grand old blue grass state, and as it is about dinner time, and I suppose that you are aware of the fact that I love to eat so I will bring my short letter to a close, giving my Big Sandy friends my best regards.

PIONEERS WANTED!

The Government Offers to Lease Reservation Lands.

Uncle Sam is seeking 500 hardy farmers, mountaineers preferred, to give over to them for a merely nominal rental 75,000 acres of irrigated land located in the Utah Indian Reservation. More than 15,000 acres of these lands are now irrigated by ditches constructed by the Government. Other canals are being built rapidly to cover the balance and the new settlers will be given employment at good wages on this work.

These lands are the allotments made to the Ute Indians, the band which recently left the Reservation and wandered northward into Wyoming and South Dakota. As these Utes don't care particularly for farming the Government is offering the white farmers an opportunity to acquire a home and a competence by cultivating these farms.

The Utah Indian Reservation is located in Northeastern Utah in the drainage basin of the Duchesne River and its tributaries. The lands are in the valleys of these streams. The altitude is from 5,000 to 6,000 feet above the sea level, giving this section a delightful climate. The summer temperature is rarely above 80 degrees and the winters are extremely mild. Wheat, oats, and alfalfa are the principal crops grown, although in the lower and more sheltered valleys apples, pears, apricots, peaches and plums do quite well. All of the fruit is of excellent flavor.

Surrounding the irrigated lands is a vast area of grazing lands which sustain enormous flocks of sheep and herds of cattle. Extensive deposits of minerals have been found in the Reservation and the development of this resource will provide a splendid market for all farm products.

At the present time the demand for stock food exceeds the supply and prices are very high. Last fall alfalfa sold at the thrasher for two cents a pound and in the winter for three and one half cents. Alfalfa early in the fall sold at $14 per ton in the winter for $30 per ton. As the yield of alfalfa runs from 3 to 5 tons per acre, it affords a very profitable crop for the farmers.

Uncle Sam will lease these lands for a term of five years at an annual rental of twenty-five cents per acre, payable semi-annually. The settler is not required to live upon his farm, but must cultivate it. On the expiration of his lease he will be permitted to renew it, and in the event of the death of the Indian allottee, he may acquire the property in fee simple by purchase. The particulars regarding terms, location of the farms ready for occupancy, climate, crops, etc., may be obtained from Capt. Hall, Indian Agent, White Rocks, Utah, or from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.
